A Note from Mal Keenan

Greetings HBT Newsletter Subscribers,

As always a warm welcome to those of you who have joined us since our last issue of HBT Newsletter.

It has been almost 3 months since our last issue and I MUST apologise. It doesn't actually take long to compile and send out a newsletter but sometimes there is so much going on, offline and online, that it is way down my list of priorities.

I sold a couple of items on Ebay last week and even my wife tried it out too, just for the fun of it. Well either she was doing it for fun or I'm not giving her enough housekeeping money:-)

I sold my copy of John Reese's Traffic Secrets and got £292 for it which is around $600. Not bad, I paid $997 for it. I'll definitely be trying Ebay again. I have another couple of courses that are just sitting gathering dust and they'll be going to the highest bidder soon.

I've come to the conclusion that I'm no longer going to focus on learning from online gurus and to just do my own thing. It will probably work out better that way anyway.

You probably heard last week about a big shake up with Google Adwords(Click the link for all the details). I thought I hadn't been affected and was quietly gloating 'til I logged into my Adwords account 2 days ago and on closer inspection found that they had bumped up some of my keywords to $5 a click.

Are they having a f&%£%"n laugh?(Excuse my french) I'd respect them more if they just sent me an email saying "Listen Mal we don't want your business anymore, now beat it!".

In essence, when Google don't want your money they make it impossible for you to compete. Nothing new about this but doesn't mean I won't get pissed off everytime it happens.

Now that I've stopped ranting you may want to check out the rest of my newsletter. A couple of articles and a freebie or two. Don't forget to check out the sponsor ads.

Here's a great free video of how John Reese makes over \$526,000 on Google AdSense(Click the link to be taken straight to the video). This short video created a storm on the net but you may not have seen it yet.

Til next time

Your friend in success

FEATURE Article - Are You Placing Your Success in the Hands of Others?

This December coming will be the second anniversary of my full-time home business. Did you know that it took me almost six years to get to the stage of earning enough income to be able to make it a full-time venture?

That's right! Six years of long hours spent in front of a PC. For the last year or two I used a wireless laptop, which at least meant I could move around the house rather than been stuck in one room.

Many of the people I deal with today do not want to spend six weeks let alone six years building their business. They expect INSTANT riches. Are you one of those?

Sure, some people are overnight successes but they are a small minority. The vast majority of full-time internet marketers have taken at least a year or two to make a real success of their home business. I'm a slow learner.....

I am a full-time affiliate marketer. That means I make my income selling other people's products and services. The first product I ever sold earned me $8. Obviously I wasn't able to buy a new car in the first month but the initial sale was a big turning point. It was then that I realised that it really IS possible to make money online.

From there my income grew steadily until I was comfortable enough to take the massive step of making a career of it.

Was it easy? Obviously not, or I would have got there a lot sooner.

The most important thing I have learnt over the years is that you absolutely MUST take responsibility for your own business. Too many people out there are putting THEIR success in the hands of others and frequently blaming people, places, and things for their failure.

If you think someone is actually going to do this for you or even meet you half way then you're sadly mistaken. Many people that are making it won't even answer your emails. That was my experience at the beginning and it still is to this day. Am I complaining? No, this is something that I accept totally. It doesn't come between me and success. If MY success is conditional on what OTHER PEOPLE do then I become frustrated time and time again.

The only lucky breaks you are likely to get are those you create for yourself.

If someone isn't playing ball then move on until you find someone that will. If you don't get a response to your email try again, try the phone, try someone else. Just keep trying! The only way you can actually fail is by giving up, so simple. So true that 95% give up.

The next time you find yourself thinking "if only this..." or "if only he would..." stop yourself and look at how YOU can find another way. How can YOU add to your business on a daily basis?

One positive action every day for your business will eventually lead you to that elusive online career regardless of what other people are doing.

SUCCESS ARTICLE - Obstacles to Manifesting our Desires

Copyright 2006 Wade Casaldi

Obstacles to manifesting our desires can come in many forms but the one thing they have in common is distraction. The distraction of attention leads to expectation of the opposite of that which we want. It is a matter of where our attention is at that pulls us toward that; which is the focus of our attention.

Attention is the universal self-magnet that draws us toward the thing or place we may place our attention in; if it is depression we have our attention focused in lack and disappointment.

If it is love we are as in effect blinded by love as the expression so goes. So our attention is not on the goal we may have that we wish to manifest. However in love it is easier to shift to manifesting and bring about our desires much more quickly than depression.

Love is a more positive quality of expectancy of abundance and good things hence love helps manifest desires and goals if we are placing our attention on those goals and desires in love.

There may be other distractions as boredom or apathy these are closer to the depression side than the love side so again they have a negative quality and expectancy of failure or lack “ah I give up this is going no-where anyway.” See that is expecting to receive nothing to achieve nothing. Expect nothing and nothing is what you will be given.

Other distractions may be things we like as in blinded by love we may also have other things blind us so we run out of time and forget to place our attention in the future we are molding by our attention. These things could be Television, Games, Music, and or Friends, anything we may like doing can become a distraction. I am not saying we must eliminate all distractions yes we may enjoy all of these but we also need remember if we want something we must take the time to build it and building it does require our attention on it.

If I want something done it will not get done while I am watching television, playing games, talking with friends, or listening to music. I can do it while I play music in the back ground and this may even help but putting my full attention on just listening and doing nothing else will not let me get something I want done.

It becomes imperative I set some time aside that is my time to work on what I am trying to get done, this is my time of no distraction this is my constructive time that I am now in the process of achievement. All the rest was entertainment; that is the process of stagnation, how many times have you had such a good time you said wow where did all the time go, as much as that was a great time how much was achieved in that time constructive to getting your project done?

This same rule holds true for our attention to manifesting our goals henceforth we need to set aside at least some portion we will be using towards focusing on manifesting our goals.
